HUMOR OF THE HOUR

Her Powerful Imagination.

When Mr. Ferguson went home the other evening he found his wife crouching over the register in the back parlor with a shawl over her shoulders and shivering with all her might. The house was as hot as an oven.

"What's the matter, Laura?" he asked.

"The matter is," she replied, with chattering teeth, "that I can't keep warm. I've got the furnace going at its full capacity too."

"I should say you had. What do you want things so hot for? Have you got a chill?"

"If you want to know, go out on the back porch and look at the thermometer."

He went and inspected it. Then he came back.

"All that ails the thermometer," he said, "is that the bulb is broken and the mercury has run out."

"Are you sure of that?"

"You may go and look at it yourself if you don't believe me."

"Isn't there a cold wave?"

"Cold nothing! When I left the office half an hour ago the thermometer showed 30 degrees above zero, and it certainly hasn't grown any colder since."

"George," gasped Mrs. Ferguson, throwing off her shawl and wiping the perspiration from her face, "I thought the mercury had gone down into the bulb and frozen solid!"—Chicago Tribune.

He Got Them All.

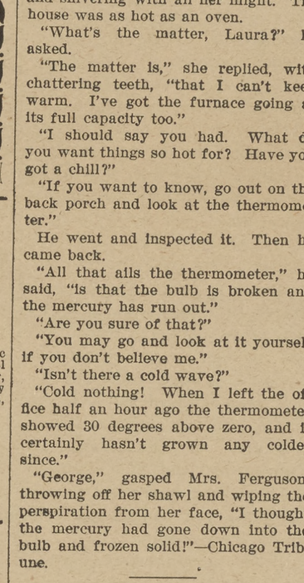
The president of a certain athletic club in Baltimore which has a fondness for amateur exhibitions of the "manly art" tells of the trials of an Irish boxer imported from Philadelphia to meet a local artist.

It appears that the Philadelphia man was getting the worst of the argument when one of his friends whispered in his ear:

"Brace up, old man, an' stop some of them blows."

"Stop 'em?" murmured the unfortunate man. "Do you see anny of thim gittin' by?"—Harper's Weekly.

The Road to Happiness.



"There can be no domestic happiness unless there are mutual concessions."

"Nonsense! My husband and I get along all right, and I make him make all the concessions."

Commercially Speaking.

Mr. Blunderalong—Why, Miss Antike, this is a pleasure! I haven't seen you for a long time. You must pardon me, but you look fifty—

Miss Antike—Mr. Blunderalong!

Mr. Blunderalong—Per cent better than you did the last time I met you.—Judge.

Preferred the Dark.

"See here, young man," said her father, "I always turn the lights out in this house by 10 o'clock.

"Oh, we'll have the parlor light out before that," replied Mr. Nervey coolly.—Philadelphia Press.

Highly Satisfactory.

Askum—Is your patient with the grip progressing as rapidly as you expected?

Dr. Fatfee (jubilantly)—Yes, thank you. He has already developed pneumonia.—Judge.

A Choice of Terms.

"Have you congratulated our hostess on her birthday?"

"No," answered Miss Cayenne, "I have condoled with her."—Washington Star.

Moderation.

Weary Walters—I don't believe in doin' two t'ings at once.

Sunny South—Two t'ings! Gee! I don't believe in doin' one t'ing at once.—Puck.

Age.

"Man has seven ages," she said.

"Yes," he replied. "Woman has only two, her real age and the one she tells her friends."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Her Criticism.

"The men are all crazy to know her."

"I think they must be."—New York Weekly.

FACTS IN FEW LINES

The pauperism of England and Wales costs the whole population $2.38 a head yearly.

There are four times as many words in the English language as in the French.

The longest article in the new section of the Oxford Dictionary is on the verb "pass." It takes up sixteen columns.

The following advertisement is taken from an English paper: "Smart lad wanted for butchering. Apply 6 Spotland road."

It is stated that not one bride was over twenty-two years of age in the 346,590 marriages which took place in Japan last year.

According to the St. James' Gazette, it is now "smart" to be superstitious; hence English society would regret to see an English princess married to an Alfonso XIII.

All Moslem races despise and hate the sound of bells, which, they say, causes the evil spirits to assemble together. In consequence bells are never used on Mohammedan mosques.

Thieves have carried off from the church of Sauvetat, in the French department of Puy de Dome, a massive and artistic copper statue of the Virgin which is said to date from 1319.

Last year Spain imported one-half of its coal from England. It is now proposed to form a union of the Spanish coal mines and by organizing the mining industry to cut off the English supply.

A Danish engineer recently built a vessel after the lines of Noah's ark as laid down in the Bible. It made a craft of 306 tons. It made a trial trip near Copenhagen and proved a good sea boat.

Copper mining once flourished in Ireland, and between 1840 and 1843 the Ballymurtagh mine in Wicklow county produced 6,000 tons of copper pyrites a year. There is some prospecting still being done in Ireland.

According to the annual report of the Volunteers of America, of whom Ballington Booth is the leader, the congregations at the 25,000 services during the past year within the volunteer halls and buildings reached 1,060,955 persons.

It is stated by the Peking Times that among the gifts presented to the empress of China on her birthday was a "beautiful diamond" from a high officer. It was examined by the empress' experts and turned out to be a piece of cut glass.

Anglomania is still increasing in Paris. Formerly one used to hear of la belle, le jeu de paume, la raquette, le ballon, etc. Today everybody says "nous faisons du sport, du rowing, du yachting, du football, du tennis, du golf," etc.

A Parisian lady claiming $10,000 damages from her landlord because the noise of the horses next door kept her awake produced as evidence a dressmaker's certificate showing that owing to want of rest her waist had become two inches smaller.

Recently a Bath (Me.) secret order initiated a candidate aged eighty years. He joined for the social features and took his degrees with several other candidates. He says that he is going to try to get what fun there is going while he lives.

In the Bayonne (N. J.) court a hen was committed and this entry made upon the records: "Name, a Leghorn; age, doubful; nativity, Centerville; occupation, layer; offense, clucking; disposition, eventually to be fricasseed; found on person, feathers."

Under a new law in Virginia which allows representatives of a person killed to sue his slayer for damages the administrator of Hoge Crockett of Richmond has secured $3,000 from the estate of T. L. Sayers. Sayers killed Crockett and then disappeared.

During a recent telegraphic breakdown messages from New York to Chicago were sent round by London, Gibraltar, Alexandria, Aden, Bombay, Madras, Hongkong, Guam and San Francisco. Answers were received in New York in less than an hour.

There are a number of men and boys at Seekonk, R. I., who make considerable money by trapping. They report animals plenty and prices good. Skunk skins bring on the average $1.50 each, mink $3 to $8 and muskrats about 20 cents each. One man caught fifty-four skunks in a single month.

The longest telephone line in Germany is 742 miles in length and runs between Berlin and Paris. Then follow Berlin and Budapest, 612 miles; Berlin and Memel, 593 miles; Berlin and Basel, 377 miles. The line between Berlin and Frankfort is the most used, 485 communications being transmitted daily.

Science now transforms radishes into potatoes. Showing a process of Pasteur, M. Moillard cultivates a young radish in a glass retort in concentrated glucose. The radish develops much starch and swells out, losing its pepperiness and acquiring the taste, consistency and nutritive properties of the potato.

A case of deliberate canine suicide is reported from Westbrook, Me. The dog was standing on the track as a train was approaching, and a young man who saw him did his utmost by calling and whistling to attract his attention, but the dog persisted in standing still, facing the coming train until struck by the engine and killed.

Twenty-one years ago a peasant in the village of Jaennersdorf, near Ostpriegnitz, placed his son in a small building and after walling him in kept him there. Food was handed in through a small opening not many inches in diameter, which was the only channel for light and air within. The peasant is now aged ninety, his wife eighty-six and the son forty-six.

Snowdrifts In Sweden.

The worst snowdrifts experienced by any railroad are said to be those in Sweden. Although the cold is not so intense as in some of our western states, the snowfall is heavy and continuous. The snowplows of various kinds which are used on these roads are said to be the most powerful in the world. There are times, however, when even this machinery fails to clear the way, when hundreds of men must be employed to dig out the stalled trains.

Favorably Received

Considerable discussion has arisen over the suggestive article in last week's Expositor, regarding the establishment of a creamery in Sonoma Valley.

Dairymen and business men have expressed themselves as being confident that such an institution would be a good paying proposition and be of great value to the valley.

That there is plenty of cream in the valley to keep a large butter factory going, that the butter would find a ready sale at remunerative prices, that it would be gladly welcomed by our citizens and liberally encouraged by the dairymen leads us to confidently predict that before many months, Sonoma will have a modern creamery along with her many other new enterprises.

Our Supervisors

Before adjourning on Saturday afternoon the Supervisors granted an appropriation of $250 towards the getting out of a pamphlet, compiled by Secretary Arthur Luce of the County Board of Trade, advertising the resources of the county. Mr. Luce appeared before the Supervisors on Thursday and showed the need of literature, stating the frequent demands made by the same and to the large quantity needed to be sent to the Portland Exposition.

Once more we feel called upon to say that Sonoma County is blessed with an excellent Board of Supervisors. Progressive yet conservative and with good judgement of the fitness of things.

Masonic Event

Temple Lodge, No. 14, F. & A. M. conferred the third degree in Masonic Hall, Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance of members and a number of visiting brethren who drove over from Petaluma and enjoyed the event.

After the ceremonies all sat down to a delicious spread.

The guests were, Dr. Dawson of Eldridge, J. M. Baily of Santa Rosa, F. A. Nauert, E. W. Ormsby, A. W. Horwege, Geo. W. Gill and J. A. Anderson of Petaluma.

Grand Opening

Mr. and Mrs. Richards, the popular proprietors of the famous Agua Caliente Springs, are making elaborate preparations for a Grand Opening of the season of 1905 at the springs.

May 6 has been set for the date. There will be band of music, a grand ball and an entertaining program

A great feast will be a prominent feature of this opening event which, we are assured, will be the grandest of its kind that ever took place in the valley. It will be the social event of the season. Everybody is cordially invited to be present. Don't forget the date, May 6, 1905.

Lucky Escape

W. H. Pooler had a fortunate escape from serious injury on Tuesday morning near the Ohm place.

The team that he was driving, the property of Mayor Poppe, became frightened and ran away. Before they could be gotten under control, the wagon and driver went over the bridge near Mac's Resort, the team became detached, starting for Sonoma. The driver is suffering from a few annoying sprains and bruises. The wagon was rescued from the creek with difficulty and that no serious damage was done was miraculous.

A New Firm

Messrs Brarens & Noonan experienced painters of San Francisco have located here permanently and have opened up a shop in the Lizzus Building on Broadway and will do all work intrusted to their care in a good and workmanlike manner.

Both young men learned their trade in the metropolis and guarantee a first class job in each and every case. Read their new ad in this issue.

EL VERANO

L. Lecay of San Francisco, is spending a few days at the French Cottage. Mr. Lecay comes to El Verano and spends some time every few months.

J. H. Moore, of the Spreckles ranch, returned by way of Lakeville with Mr. Spreckles race horses. Mr. Spreckles is also spending a few days on his ranch.

Miss Bessie Fowler of San Francisco, was visiting Mrs. Wm. Hyett last Friday.

Miss Pearl Bridges was a visitor to San Francisco Wednesday.

Judge J. B. Small was a passenger for Santa Rosa on Sunday.

MacQuiddy & Son have finished the building of a house for A. D. Ashcroft on Orange Avenue. Mr. Ashcroft and wife were up Sunday and were well pleased with the job.

Hugh D. Chance of S. F., was up Sunday visiting his folks. Hugh is now a full fledged painter and has a big job on hand in San Leandro.

Mrs. Ralph Ent spent a few days here this week.

O. W. Nordwell spent Sunday on his ranch north of town,

Peter Forni has commenced work this week on a 20 room hotel. E. P. Lembost has the contract to put up the building.

Mrs. C. C. Carriger went to San Francisco to visit her son for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hanger of the Racket Store, were northbound passengers Tuesday.

O. P. Palstine of Sonoma, was a passenger for Santa Rosa Tuesday. Mr. P. is well known here, as he taught the El Verano school for several terms.

E. H. Johnson, the well known roadmaster of San Louis district, was shaking hands with friends in town Tuesday.

SUPERIOR COURT NOTES

The community property of the late Sarah E. Little was declared to be vested in her surviving husband.

The defendant was allowed five days to plead in the suit of Suhr vs Suhr.

The demurrer in the divorce suit of Spiach vs, Spiach was submitted.

In Department 11, Judge Burnett presiding, the demurrer in the suit of Haines vs. Haines, was overruled and ten days allowed to answer,

An order to publish summons was granted in the suit of Burris vs. Hippo,

These matters were continued: People vs. Schmoll to April 27, Hopper vs. Keys to May 2, Huntington vs. Pinney, and estates of Lydia and I. G. Wickersham to March 27.

GLEN ELLEN

Charlie Lane was in town last Wednesday looking after the family interests in this locality.

The Glen Ellen Grange lectures and entertainment have been postponed, and will take place on April 7th.

B. M. Bones has been elected a delegate from this Parlor to the meeting of the Grand Parlor at Monterey next month. We learn that W. O. Hocker has been elected from Sonoma, and the interests of Sonoma Valley Natives in the hands of two of her most loyal sons, will certainly be well looked after.

A petition is being circulated to raise funds for the purpose of properly mounting the cannon which arrived here last week and which was donated to the people of Glen Ellen by the U. S. Government.

We are glad to note that Mrs. A. M. Schieck who has been quite ill the past few weeks, has now greatly improved in health.

J. W. Gibson, the all-round handy man, is making some needed improvements in the parlors of John Cozad, our popular tonsorialist.

A two-story brick blacksmith shop will be one of the additions to Glen Ellen in the near future. Mr. Chauvet has so stated, and that the work on same will soon commence.

An April wedding is one of the events to come. Particulars later.

Ben Blasher, the popular Supt. of the Sonoma Brick Co., will remove with his mother to Vallejo, where he has obtained a very lucrative position.

Social Dance

The Sonoma Brass Band will give a social dance in Union Hall on Friday evening March 31 next. Good music and a good time is assured. You're invited. Admission 50 cents, ladies free.

N. S. G. W.

At a meeting of Sonoma Parlor last Monday evening, it was decided to give a banquet upon the occasion of the visit of the Grand Trustee at which time a number of new candidates will be received into the order.

W. O. Hocker was elected a delegate to the Grand Parlor which convenes in Monterey on April 24.

Leo Dowdall was chosen alternate

Dr. A. M. Thomson was elected surgeon for the parlor.

John Laux Promoted

Another popular Sonoma boy has made good in his chosen vocation This time we are pleased to state that our friend John Laux has been raised from the position of brakeman to that of conductor of the night freight on the main line of the C. N. R'y. Johnny is an all around railroad man and stands high with the officials of the company.

Sonoma Valley Board of Trade

A very interesting meeting of the Board was held last Monday evening

A number of the members were present in addition to those enterprising citizens who were not members of the old Board of Trade.

It was decided to continue the good work and many valuable suggestions were heard and acted upon.

It was decided to work in conjunction with the Sonoma County Progressive Association which is preparing a pamphlet descriptive of the resources and advantages of Sonoma Valley as well as the other sections of our county.

F. T. Duhring presided at the meeting and assured the board that Sonoma Valley would certainly get its share of notice in the discription pamphlet of the county to be sent to the Portland Exhibition.

Mr. Duhring is chairman of the literature committee.

The next meeting of the Sonoma Valley Board of Trade will be held in Union Hall, Thursday evening, March 30.

A full attendance of the members is urgently requested and a cordial invitation is extended to all citizens to attend this meeting and place themselves on the side of progress.

Judge Moore Dead

Judge A. P. Moore, a pioneer of Sonoma Co., and a former under sheriff of the county who was twice elected County Recorder, first in 1886, died in Santa Rosa last Sunday. A few months ago he became paralyzed and his death was not unexpected. He was a native of Ohio and was 74 years of age.

A wife and three grown children are left to mourn his loss.

Important Bulletin On Poultry Feeding

Professor Myer E. Jaffa, agricultural chemist at the University of California, has just issued an important bulletin on the subject of poultry feeding, dealing particularly with the proprietary foods now being generally used by the poultrymen through out the state. He gives as the reason why there are on sale throughout the country so many proprietary poultry foods, as compared with similar foods for the cow, horse and swine, the fact that it is only of late years that any considerable time or attention has been given by the agricultural experiment stations to nutrition investigations of fowls.

This, he declares, is far less than is warranted by the importance of the industry, and it is to make up in some way for this deficiency in popular knowledge on the subject that the present bulletin has been published. He says that the nutrition studies in cows and similar farm animals have been carried on for many years, and the dairymen have thus, through the dissemination of the results of work at different stations, been educated and know just what to give their animals so as to bring about the best results. He prophesies that when the poultrymen shall have been instructed, the sale of proprietary or condimental foods will be very small.

"It has been conclusively shown," says Professor Jaffa, "that in order to secure the most profitable returns from laying hens they must receive a highly nitrogenous ration, which can be compounded from the staple foodstuffs in the local markets without requiring the use of any proprietary foods. This is amply proven by many successful poultrymen in California. Some of the manufacturers, realizing that 'Protein' is the keynote to successful poultry feeding have placed upon the market preparations rich in this nutrient."

Professor Jaffa, undaunted by the recent attacks on the fertilizer control law, closes his bulletin with an appeal for a similar law for animal foods. He says that there is a necessity in California of a food inspection law, not only with reference to proprietary foods alone, but along in connection with the sale of ordinary cattle and poultry feeds.

We are in receipt of copies of the Poultry Bulletins from the University and parties desiring to see them can do so by calling at the Expositor office.

The Amateur Poultryman.

The amateur who is just starting into the poultry business must be willing to begin at the bottom and work up. He will encounter many obstacles, but if he has a sufficient amount of stick-to-it-iveness he will make up and succeed. His rise may be slow, but there is room at the top. The mushroom poultryman is short lived.

THE MYSTERY SOLVED.

In justice to all concerned, the following facts should be stated:

The Coroner's jury, called to inquire into the sudden death of Hubert Fowler, made a thorough examination of the case and found that deceased came to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by himself while temporarily insane.

The evidence also proved that Hubert had been very ill with the grip for over a week, and that he was discouraged, weak and melancholy from his sickness

An examination of his account book showed that he was indebted to different parties here in the total of $40.90.

Being sick and out of work these debts remaining unpaid, worried the young man a great deal.

There is not the slightest evidence of any sort that there was a young lady in the case and those who know him best are confident that he took his life while brooding over his sickness and financial troubles.

Hubert had many friends here in the valley where he was born and raised and none speak more highly of his worth and character than those he has worked for from time to time in the past few years. The relatives of the young man have the sincere sympathy of all in their sorrow.

The funeral of the late Hubert Alexander Fowler took place last Saturday morning from the City Hotel, Rev. R. Lionel Rowe officiating. There was a large gathering of friends and relatives to pay their last respects to the departed.

Interment was in Mountain Cemetery.

Coming Event

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational Church are preparing for a fine two night bazaar and entertainment to be given in Union Hall, Thursday and Friday May 11 and 12. The ladies promise something new and unusually good.

Card of Thanks

A Correction

The El Verano correspondent of the Expositor made a slight mistake in a recent issue in saying that 'Roxey Murphy' was being groomed for the next race meet.

It is her owner, A. W. Weaver, the El Verano blacksmith, who is grooming to shoe the race horses. The horse he shoes always wins. See? Mr. Weaver is an expert at horseshoeing. Ask his hundreds o satisfied customers.

School Trustee Election Law Has Been Changed

County Superintendent of Schools Miss Minnie Coulter has sent out circular letters to the trustees of schools of this county, calling attention to a change in the law providing for the election of trustees. A bill approved March 6 by Governor Pardee makes it obligatory that election for school trustees be held on the first Friday of April instead of the first Friday in June, as formerly.

Among other things to which Miss Coulter calls the attention of the trustees is that the governor has recently signed a bill which provides that no teacher's salary shall be less than $500 in any year, and that pupils who reside in territory not in any high school district may be charged a reasonable non-resident fee when attending high school.

Dickson MacQuiddy gave a very enjoyable party to twelve of his young gentlemen friends at their club rooms in the Dal Poggeto building last Friday evening. The event was much enjoyed.

Miss Myrtle Olsen, wishes to emphatically deny that she was in any way, directly or remotely, connected with the late Broadway tragedy. Everybody who attended the party on the fateful Wednesday night of last week, knew that she was not even remotely connected with the affair and so does every one else who knows anything at all of the case. The young lady regrets very much the use of her name in the affair with which she had nothing to do.

Rev. E. E. Chakurian, pastor of Kenwood and Glen Ellen Congregational Churches will occupy the pulpit of the Congregational Church in Sonoma next Sunday at the morning and evening service.

Postponed

The entertainment and lectures which were to be given by the Glen Ellen Grange last Saturday evening were postponed until Friday evening April 7 owing to the inclemency of the weather.

DEATH OF A MEXICAN WAR VETERAN

Lewis W. Mayer, a pioneer of the state and well known in this valley died at his home in San Francisco last Friday morning.

He has been suffering from a malady known to be fatal and his death was not unexpected.

Mr. Mayer was one of the oldest pioneers of California and the last member of the late General Sherman's company of artillery which served in the Mexican war, and was the first military company to arrive in California on the battleship Lexington, which came around the Horn. Immediately upon the company's arrival at Monterey hostilities began with Mexico. The deceased served under Generals Ord and Halleck when they were lieutenants in his company.

Mr. Mayer was born in Germany August 18, 1823. He came to America when 15 years of age and made his home in Philadelphia, where he enlisted for the Mexican war in 1846.

After the war he assisted in firing the 101 guns which heralded the declaration of peace. He then settled in El Dorado county and engaged in mining, and later moved to Sonoma, where he took up viticulture. For a quarter of a century he was reputed the leading winemaker of Sonoma. About a year ago he changed his residence to the city though even then, at nearly 81 years of age, he enjoyed life on the ranch. He was a member of the Society of California Pioneers, in which he was recognized as a historical figure.

Mrs. Mayer, the widow, and five children, Bertha C., Frederick, Tress and Louis Mayer and Mrs. R. Rector survive him.

The funeral took place Sunday from his late residence on Pine St.

DAMAGE SUIT SETTLED

The suit of Ernest Clewe against the California Central Gas and Electric company was dropped from the calender by consent of all parties concerned.

The case was compromised by the "Big Power Company" making a reasonable offer which Mr. Clewe accepted. This ends the matter.

It is also understood that the company will do the right thing by Chas. McDevitt who was injured on the main line at the same time as was Ernest Clewe, and that a suit for damages will not be begun by him as was intended.

Mr. Ryland has informed us that Mr. McDevitt is now practically well and will soon be home.

Charley's many friends here will be glad to hear of his recovery and to welcome him home.

Distinguished Visitor

Mr. Halstead, owner of the old Halstead place at Agua Caliente, has been spending the week at Agua Caliente Springs and looking after his property. He formerly lived in Sonoma Valley but is now a prosperous resident of San Jose, Mexico, where he owns an immense cattle range. He expressed himself as delighted with conditions in the valley and with the appearance of his farm as it is kept by his efficient foreman, Wm. Durant. Mr. Halstead leaves for his far-away home Saturday, after sojourning for the week with Mine Host Richards. of Agua Caliente Springs.

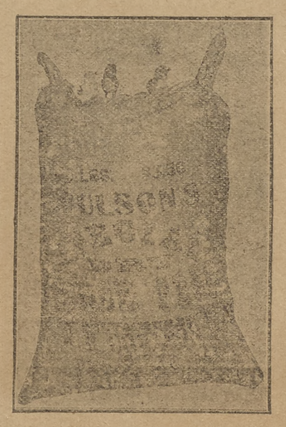
Let us remember that what makes others successful will make us successful that's what we are after—

SUCCESS

If these other fellows can have such good success raisin chickens on COULSON'S SPECIAL DRY CHICK FOOD, so can we. I want to raise a few thousand chicks this year and I will give this Coulson's Chick Food a trial. I can get it at the feed store for $3 500 a 100 lbs. and if I take 500 or 1000 pounds, I can get it for a little less than that, I guess I will go up to the store and take a look at this feed and perhaps get a ton of it.



You will have the best success you ever had in raising chickens if you'll feed COULSON'S SPECIAL DRY CHICK FEED. Send for sample. It,s good for turkey's as well. THE ADDRESS IS

On the Plains.

The sun sinks low,
The golden glow
Falls slanting o'er the tawny plain;
A gentle breeze
From faroff seas
Blows gently o'er the wagon train;
A mellow beauty softly reigns—
'Tis sunset on the western plains.

The twinkling stars
Through the azure bars
Look down upon the darkened plain;
The coyote's cry
And night wind's sigh
Are blended in a long refrain;
A mystic, wild enchantment reigns—
'Tis sunset on the western plains.

Long rays of light
Dispel the night
As slanting sunbeams span the plain;
Wild flowers fair
Perfume the air,
While westward wends the wagon train.
The god of day in glory reigns—
'Tis sunrise on the western plains.
—Louis P. Callahan in Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Hulk on the Shore.

Broken, dismantled and stark,
Rotting and waiting the end,
I am moored in a harbor where death and the dark
In limitless shadows blend.
My keel is buried in sand,
My timbers creak in the wind;
How I long for the weight of the master's hand
On the wheel, as we sailed to the Ind!

Oh, to point by the Southern Cross,
Or to follow the northern star,
To fly a race with the albatross
To the lands that lie afar!
Oh, to ride from crest to crest,
In the teeth of a merry gale,
When the lightning's flash shows the sea's unrest,
And the cheeks of men turn pale!

The sound of the snapping mast,
The shrieks of the frightened crew,
Unheeded by me as I challenge the blast
And plow the mad waves through!
And at last in the harbor's calm,
At rest on the mirroring tide,
I'd breathe perfume in the soft air's balm
And the master's will abide.

This was the life I once lived,
And a thousand deaths I have died
While fretting here like a soul unshrived
At the great wide water's side.
'Twere better I had gone
A hundred fathoms deep
To the grave for which good ships are born—
A cool, sweet shroud and sleep.

GLOOMY BRIC-A-BRAC.

Coffin Plates Once Used as House Ornaments In Maine.

In New England 100 years ago it was by no means uncommon for people to provide their coffins long before their death and keep the same in their houses, where they could see them every day. It was perhaps a custom having the same purpose and significance as the skeleton at the feasts of the ancient Greeks, to remind the living in their hours of levity of the seriousness of life and the certainty of death.

This was not the idea, however, of a man named Lindsey, whom people now living in Leeds may remember or at least have heard of. He built his own coffin many years before he died and used to keep it in a chamber of his house. He used it generally to keep beans in. It was a very fine coffin, made of mahogany and nicely finished and polished. Mr. Lindsey made it with his own hands and gave as reason that if he left the task of providing him with a coffin to his sons it would be just like them to put him in a hemlock one. Perhaps the boys did not relish the implication. At any rate, they did not like to have the coffin about the house and took it away one night and threw it into the river. It was found several miles below, considerably broken and battered as it went over the rips, and old Lindsey heard about it, drove down and got it and was finally buried in it.

Another queer custom that prevailed in this section of Maine down to a comparatively recent date was that of removing the plate from the coffin after the funeral and just before the body was lowered into the grave and keeping it in the best room in the house among the ornaments and bric-a-brac. The writer saw one of these grewsome exhibits on the mantel of a Lincolnville parlor not more than twenty-five years ago, and we shouldn't be surprised if quite a number of them could be found in the old houses throughout Maine.—Bangor News.

AN HERB FOR EVERY PAIN.

Old Fashioned Remedies That Were Used by Our Forbears.

In the village of Greenwich, England, in a quaint old street where the buildings are so thick that they tangle themselves together in a knot, there is a queer little shop with a sign over the door that reads, "An Herb For Every Pain."

On the shelves of this shop are to be found hundreds of different kinds of herbs for the cure of all bodily ailments. There can be found all the old time herbs that our grandmothers used to have hanging around the walls of the kitchen and stored away in the attic, ready to be made into teas and sirups in case of sickness.

People who still have old fashioned ideas about health and sickness go there for bugleweed, sumac, wintergreen, sassafras, camomile, horehound, yellow dock, catnip, cherry bark, mullein, extract of oats, lobelia, and so on. All these herbs have the reputation of being good for some one or more ailments—catnip for nervousness, sassafras for the blood, horehound and boneset for colds, sumac for sore throat, wintergreen for rheumatism, lobella as an emetic in case of poisoning, mullein for consumption, etc.

Nearly all of these herbs are made into teas. Sassafras tea, boneset tea and catnip tea are brewed and served either cold or hot. Among the many hundreds of herbs that are sold in this little shop are some that are deadly poisons, and they are labeled and sold under the same restrictions as other poisons.

The good old remedies that our grandfathers hunted and dug in the woods, those that our grandmothers planted and tended in the garden, have given way to harmful remedies, to drugs that leave the patient in a worse condition than when he began their use. We believe it has been a mistake to give up the old remedies.—Medical Talk.

People Talked About

CHARLES E. TOWNSEND of Michigan awoke to find himself famous by reason of his name being attached to the most important bill passed by the house of representatives in the Fifty-eighth congress. The Townsend-Esch bill for regulating railroad freight rates did not become a law because the United States senate balked at it, but it was the most discussed piece of proposed legislation that came up during the congressional session just closed. Mr. Townsend was serving his first term in the house, but he was placed upon the important committee on interstate and foreign commerce, and when the railroad rate question came up framed a bill on the subject. This was combined with a bill framed by a member from Wisconsin, Mr. Esch, and the resulting measure was reported to the house and passed by the extraordinarily large vote of 326 to 17.

CHARLES E. TOWNSEND.

Mr. Townsend was re-elected to the Fifty-ninth congress. He is forty-eight years of age, was born on a farm near Jackson, Mich., and studied at Michigan university. He is married and for the past ten years has practiced law in Jackson.

Senator George C. Perkins of California got his start in life through running steamboats. He landed in the Golden State as a lad of twelve and for several years was employed in a grocery store. He managed to save up $800. One day he found the ferryboat which was operated across a neighboring stream stuck on a sand bar. The owner was disheartened and talked of selling out. "How much would you take for the boat as it lies?" inquired young Perkins.

SENATOR GEORGE C. PERKINS.

"A thousand dollars and not a cent less," was the reply.

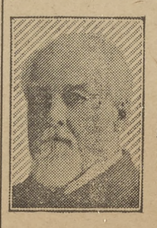
Perkins drew his $800 out of the bank, succeeded in borrowing $200 more, and before sundown the ferryboat was his. He had to cut away the sand bar by his own labor, but the venture proved successful, and after a time he sold out for $3,000. Then he bought a store and some years later found himself in a position to purchase the controlling interest in an ocean steamship company.

Senator Perkins tells a story of a scene in a courtroom on the Pacific coast where a man arrested for robbery vehemently asserted his innocence even after he had been convicted by a jury.

"May the Almighty strike me dead on this spot if I am not innocent!" he shouted.

The judge waited for a minute or two; then he said, "Well, prisoner, as Providence has not interfered I will take a hand and sentence you to three years at hard labor."

Senator Samuel Douglas McEnery of Louisiana, who, though a Democrat, declared himself a supporter of President Roosevelt's programme for regulating railroad rates, has been twice governor of Louisiana and also chief justice of the Louisiana supreme court. He is a native of the state, was born in 1837, is a graduate of the United States Naval academy and of the University of Virginia and in the civil war was a Confederate lieutenant under Magruder. He succeeded N. C. Blanchard in the senate in 1896 and was re-elected in 1902. Senator McEnery is very deaf. Recently a correspondent for a New Orleans paper sent his card in to him, and the senator came out into the lobby in response to it.



SENATOR S. D. M'ENERY.

"Good afternoon," said the correspondent. "Is there any news today?"

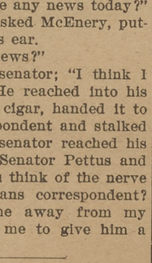
"What's that?" asked McEnery, putting his hand to his ear.

"Have you any news?"

"Yes," said the senator; "I think I have just one." He reached into his pocket, took out a cigar, handed it to the amazed correspondent and stalked away. When the senator reached his seat he turned to Senator Pettus and said: "What do you think of the nerve of that New Orleans correspondent? Why, he called me away from my work here to get me to give him a cigar!"

Andrew Carnegie is very free with his money, but he has for years made it a rule not to sign notes. He says he can pay cash when he has any obligations to settle or wishes to accommodate a friend by a loan. As a witness at the trial of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick in Cleveland he will testify concerning notes which she negotiated at banks on the strength of his supposed signature.

Mr. Carnegie likes to have his little joke as well as anybody. Some time ago the members of the Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain were visiting the United States, and the great steel magnate was with them during their stay in Washington. A local reporter approached a short, well groomed gentleman wearing the badge of the institution, and the following conversation occurred:



ANDREW CARNEGIE.

"I beg pardon," said the reporter, "but would you kindly give me your opinion concerning the iron and steel industry of the United States? How does it compare with the progress made in your country?"

"You Americans are wonderful people," responded the visitor. "Do you know, although the members of the institute have not yet seen very much of the work in this country, we are constantly scratching our heads to keep up with you."

The conversation continued in this strain for some moments until the reporter, flushed with the apparent success of his efforts to get an interview, requested the stranger's name. The gentleman handed the inquisitor a card and hurried away. It bore the name "Andrew Garnegie."

President Samuel Spencer of the Southern railway opposes government supervision of railway rates, but says he would like to see rebates abolished. He is credited with knowing more about the details of railway management than any other man in the country, and J. Pierpont Morgan, whose partner he was for some years, reposes great trust in his judgment. Measured by his inches, Mr. Spencer is a small man for a big position. Short, wiry and a bundle of energy, he has come to be considered one of the giants in the world of industry. Besides being president of the Southern he is the executive head of five other roads and a director in several more. Naturally he is a busy man. When he was in the firm of Morgan, Drexel & Co. he was in much demand for consultation on railway projects. A man with 35,000 acres of coal land to sell, 600,000,000 tons in sight, visited Mr. Morgan's office day after day to strike a bargain and was invariably and at last forcibly told that he must see Mr. Spencer. Taking the hint, he called on Mr. Spencer three times a day for three weeks, being always informed by some understrapper that Mr. Spencer was not in. One day he camped beside the door until he saw Mr. Spencer enter the office, then handed in his card. "Mr. Spencer is not in town and"— "Here, boy, you just present that card and tell Samuel Spencer that my time is as valuable as his. I want one minute by the watch and no more.. Do you understand, sir?" He was invited to enter. Watch in hand, he stated his business without useless indirection and when the minute was up started out. Mr. Spencer begged him not to be in a hurry and kept him there half an hour talking coal.

SAMUEL SPENCER.

Mr. Spencer was born in Georgia fifty-eight years ago and is a graduate both of the University of Georgia and the University of Virginia. He started in railroad engineering as a rodsman and worked his way up.

Senator Frederick T. Dubois of Idaho, who has been a prominent figure in the Smoot investigation and is an old time enemy of the Mormons, is one of four brothers, the others being William, Lincoln and Kilbourne, who as boys were nicknamed Will, Link and Kill. The names of the boys, placed according to the order of birth, read, "Will Link Kill Fred?" At last reports Fred had not been killed.

The senator is known as a joker. Last summer some one in Idaho gave his baby a dog. It was a mongrel, but the attachment between the child and the puppy was so great that the latter was brought on to Washington. One day the pup followed the senator to the capitol.

SENATOR F. T. DUBOIS.

"What kind of a dog is that, Dubois?" asked Senator Bailey.

"That? That's a fish hound," Senator Dubois told him. "Why, that's the finest breed of dogs we have in Idaho. Every morning that dog goes down to a trout stream and brings in a trout when we are in Idaho. He never fails."

"He must be a wonderful animal," agreed Senator Burrows.

"Wonderful doesn't half describe that dog," Senator Dubois continued. "Why, one morning we had no fish in the house, and what do you think that dog did? Why, he went out and brought in a can of sardines."

"Papa," said the son of Charles A. Edwards, secretary of the Democratic congressional committee, "why am I a Democrat?"

"Who wants to know?" asked Mr. Edwards suspiciously.

"The teacher," the boy replied.

"Well," said Mr. Edwards, "you tell the teacher you are a Democrat because you possess the God given faculty, after you have been rolled in the dust and kicked and cuffed, of rising and declaring to the world, 'Well, we lost this time, but we will win in 1908.'"

Lions Like Lavender Water.

The old theory of animal liking for scents denied them any share in such pleasures unless they suggested the presence of their food or prey. But such a reason can hardly be alleged for a lion's liking for lavender water. The writer, wishing to test for himself the reported fondness of many animals for perfumes, paid a series of visits to the zoological garden provided with bottles of scent and a packet of cotton wool and there tried some harmless experiments which apparently gave great satisfaction to many of the inhabitants. Lavender water was the favorite scent, and most of the lions and leopards showed unqualified pleasure when the scent was poured on the wool and put into their cages.—Spectator.

One Exception.

President Luther of Trinity college, at Hartford, Conn., preached one Sunday when he was a professor in college on the story of Esther. He concluded with the words, "'So they hanged Haman on the gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai,' and every one was pleased." Then as the irony appealed to him he added in a lower voice, "Except Haman."

Grief and White Hair.

The mustaches of Henry III. of Navarre are reported to have become partially white in a few hours after hearing of the concession of the edict of Nemours. The hair of an English banker, owing to reverses in business, became gray in three days, according to the Encyclopedia Metropolitan. According to the same authority, a man about forty years old, who at his marriage had a dark head of hair, "on his return from his wedding trip had his hair turn so completely snow white, even to his eyebrows, that his friends almost doubted his identity."

An Autograph Hint.

"Will you oblige me with your autograph?" asked a bore of a busy public man.

"Certainly," replied the public man. "Just make out a check for 10 guineas payable to my order. I will indorse it cheerfully, and in due time, you may be sure, it will come back to you safely through your bank."
